What is an Eating Disorder?

People from all types of background, gender and ethnic groups can suffer from eating disorders. Eating disorders are a way of coping with feelings that are making the person unhappy or depressed. It may be difficult to face up to and talk about. The pupil may experience a range of emotions e.g. feelings like anger, sadness, guilt, loss or fear. An eating disorder is a sign that a person needs help in coping with life and dealing with personal problems.

Here are some of the symptoms:

Physical signs	Behavioural signs	Psychological signs

Conditions as complex as eating disorders mean that there are variations in the typical signs, and not all symptoms will apply to all people. Some pupils may feel that they have a mixture of anorexia and bulimia, or alternate between them. Some pupils also find they are affected by an urge to harm themselves or abuse alcohol or drugs.

Eating Disorders do not include food allergies, selective eating issues or disorders of the digestive system.

A General Practitioner should be the first point of call for these issues as well as for eating disorders.

How we aim to support pupils with eating disorders

Ashfield Girls' High School recognises that eating disorders are a way of coping with feelings that are making the person unhappy or depressed.

Early intervention and professional help are essential. (Refer to the school Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy)

- The child's welfare must be paramount
- The child's interests must always come first
- All agencies concerned with the protection of children must work together in the best interests of the children
- Confidentiality must be subordinate to the need to protect the interest of the child

The core team of Heads of Progress, Head of Junior School, Head of Pastoral Care, and Principal are available for consultation and support.

Personal Development education plays an important role in delivering issues around healthy lifestyles and emotional literacy. Nutrition, dieting and eating disorders may be discussed as part of the Learning for Life and Work and Home Economics curriculum.

The Eating Disorders Association states that, "experience shows that support from school, friends and family can really help young people to recover even when they are receiving professional help and advice.

It is important to remember that anyone with an eating disorder must get proper medical advice and help."

Pupil Confidentiality

How do you know if a pupil is at risk?

There are no guidelines available on how to judge the level of risk a student may be facing. Staff must exercise their best judgement when making such decisions about a pupil.

Pupil Confidentiality

Staff have a duty not to give out information about pupils to anyone, except in exceptional circumstances. These exceptional circumstances are when the staff member feels the health, safety or welfare of the student or others is at risk. Staff should always inform pupils that they could never agree to absolute confidentiality.

What do you do if you think a pupil is at risk?

Encourage the pupil to agree to inform her parents through yourself and the Head of Progress. A parent interview should be arranged, as a matter of urgency, with the pupil, teacher, Head of Progress and Parent/Carer.

If the pupil concerned refuses to inform her parents, then the member of staff must immediately inform the Designated Teacher (Mrs B Cripps) or a Deputy Designated Teacher (Mrs N Christie or Miss J Friar). Try to inform the student of the action you are taking as a sign of respect, support and to avoid conflict.

The Designated Teacher will make a formal decision about whether or not the student concerned is at risk. If the Designated Teacher decides the pupil is at risk they have the right to inform the relevant parties of the situation in order to get the pupil the help they need.

IMPORTANT OVERVIEW

Where a pupil has already been diagnosed with an eating disorder, her confidentiality will be respected and staff will only be informed on a "Need to Know" basis. For this reason, it is essential that staff are consistent in delivering the caring ethos of our school in their interactions with all pupils.
